OUR FOUNDER: GAN ENG SENG

“Born in 1844 of humble origin, Gan Eng Seng did not have much opportunity for an education himself. Through sheer hard and honest work, he established himself in the business world and gave generously to provide free education to needy children.”

Transition into Secondary One

Helping your child make the smooth transition into secondary school

Understanding your child

What your child may be experiencing

- Overwhelmed by a different school environment, longer days, and a wider range of subjects
- Navigating the stress of making new friends, fitting in with peers, and finding their place in a new community
- Influenced by peer relationships and online interactions, which shape their self-image and confidence
- Adjusting to new routines, multiple subject teachers, and increased personal responsibilities
- Feeling tired from earlier school hours and heavier curriculum load
- Experiencing typical teen changes — seeking independence but still needing support and reassurance

Supporting your child

How you can support your child

- Take an active interest in what your child is curious about or learning, their friends and online activities, and not only their grades
- Acknowledge their feelings and normalise setbacks as part of dealing with changes
- Affirm effort and small improvements to build confidence
- Guide them gradually in managing new routines (e.g., timetable, preparing materials, balancing schoolwork and CCA)
- Encourage healthy habits — sleep, screen time, exercise, and family connection
- Respect their growing independence, while being present as a consistent and supportive guide

Supporting your child

Suggested Activity: Leave a ‘Love-Note’

- On a post-it, write a message of
 - Encouragement: ‘That project looks tough, ice-cream break later?’
 - Invitation: ‘Looking forward to our café date this weekend’
 - Love: ‘Here if you need me, no questions asked.’
- Place the post-it at a place which your child frequents.
- Remember:
 - Keep message short and sweet – no nagging!
 - Switch up the locations where you leave these post-its from time to time.

Meet-Parent-Session in GESS School Hall on 9 Jan (Fri) at 5 pm. See you then!
